Translation of Prospectus issued in connection with the formation of the Korean Workers' Army. 韓國勞兵會 Obtained in Dr. Fearn's Church on April 3, 1923.

The movement for Korean Independence which has been growing for a decade is at last taking definite shape. By the struggle they have conducted without arms and the way they have sacrificed their lives, since the declaration of independence, our brothers and sisters in Korea have been demonstrating our desire for freedom. In the meantime we, who are exiles in foreign lands, have not been negligent in our duty, and have helped the campaign by presenting our country's case at international conferences and appealing for the support of foreign powers whose sympathy has helped to sustain our valiant brothers in their fight against overwhelming odds. Our cause is just and our willingness to make sacrifices is apparent. We have therefore good reason to hope for success, and now propose the organization of the "Korean Workers' Army" which will be composed of self-supporting volunteers. Further details of the organization are given in the regulations.
